Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Claims 1-13, 15-28 and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Hoschek (Wolfgang Hoschek, November 2002, Int'l. IEEE/ACM Supercomputing Conference (SC 2002), Baltimore, USA, November 2002. IEEE Computer Society Press., "The Web Service Discovery Architecture", pages 1-15).

As per claims 1 and 16, Hoschek discloses a method for mapping Open Grid Services Architecture (OSGA) service data to a native resource representation thereof, the method comprising: defining a set of standard mapping rules for service data descriptions in a service-oriented architecture; wherein said set of standard mapping rules are implemented through an OSGA Service Data Mapping Language (OSDML) configured to support complex mapping through extensible language features. (Page 9, Section 6: Paragraphs 2 and 3)

As per claims 2 and 17, Hoschek discloses the method of claim 1, wherein said OSDML is an extensible markup language (XML). (Page 9, Section 6: Paragraphs 2 and 3)

As per claims 3 and 18, Hoschek discloses the method of claim 1, wherein said OSDML defines an extensible set of at least one of: data source mechanisms and resource access mechanisms. (Page 9, Section 6: Paragraph 4, Page 11: Table 2)

As per claims 4 and 19, Hoschek discloses the method of claim 1, wherein said OSDML defines parameterization capabilities for supporting dynamic values. (Pages 9-10, Section 6, Paragraph 5)

As per claims 5 and 20, Hoschek discloses the method of claim 1, wherein said OSDML defines executable scripts to process data transformation and queries. (Page 8: Openness and Flexibility, Page 10: Paragraph 2)

As per claims 6 and 21, Hoschek discloses the method of claim 1, wherein said OSDML defines a mechanism for defining private mapping for an internal state of a service. (Page 9, Section 6: Paragraph 3)

As per claims 7 and 22, Hoschek discloses the method of claim 1, wherein said OSDML defines a set of rules for defining and mapping service data change notification subscriptions from a corresponding native resource implementation thereof. (Page 10-11, Data Publication, Paragraph 4, Table 2)

Art Unit: 2141

As per claims 8 and 23, Hoschek discloses the method of claim 1, further comprising: defining a flexible framework engine for processing rules and mappings defined by said OSMDL. (Page 11: Table 2)

As per claims 9 and 24, Hoschek discloses the method of claim 8, wherein said framework engine includes a uniform interface to services implementation. (Page 10, Paragraph 2)

As per claims 10 and 25, Hoschek discloses the method of claim 8, wherein said framework engine includes a pluggable provider interface, said pluggable provider interface being configured to support language extensions and new service data providers. (Page 13, Conclusions, Paragraphs 1 and 2)

As per claims 11 and 26, Hoschek discloses the method of claim 10, wherein said framework engine is configured to support at least one of: parameterization, flexible data source binding and pluggable script execution. (Page 5, network protocol bindings; Page 13, Conclusion , Paragraph 3)

As per claims 12 and 27, Hoschek discloses the method of claim 10, wherein said framework engine further comprises a document repository. (Page 9, Section 6: Paragraph 4)

As per claims 13 and 28, Hoschek discloses the method of claim 10, wherein said framework engine further comprises a generic interface for supporting OSDML instance data retrieval. (Page 9, Section 6: Paragraph 3)

As per claims 15 and 30, Hoschek discloses the method of claim 10, wherein said engine is configured to map service data definitions to relational database schema. (Page 9, Section 6: Paragraph 2 and 3; Page 11: Table 2)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 14 and 29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hoschek (Wolfgang Hoschek, November 2002, Int'l. IEEE/ACM Supercomputing Conference (SC 2002), Baltimore, USA, November 2002. IEEE Computer Society Press, "The Web Service Discovery Architecture", pages 1-15) in view of Bhat (US 7,062,516).

As per claims 14 and 29, Hoschek discloses the method of claim 10. Hoschek fails to disclose wherein said pluggable provider interface comprises at least one of: a common information object manager (CIMOM) and a database adapter. Bhat discloses wherein said pluggable provider interface comprises at least one of: a common information object manager (CIMOM) and a database adapter. (Col 7 lines 16-33)

At the time the invention was made, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to disclose wherein said pluggable provider interface comprises at least one of: a common information object manager (CIMOM) and a database adapter in the disclosure of Hoscek. The motivation for doing so would have been to enable distributed system management to take place between management systems and applications. (Col 1 lines 46-54)
